Funding

Funded training subsidises the education and development of individuals, ensuring that organisations can access the required skills to achieve growth. The funding marketplace is very fragmented with no central fund.

Thorough research and good navigation skills will identify some of the well publicised budgets, but the smartest and quickest route is to speak to an experienced training and development provider, who will tell you what funds are available and for how long they are likely to be accessible.

Combining first class customer service with our extensive experience, knowledge and trusted approach, THE Group can advise on the funding opportunities available to your organisation and the qualifying products and services.
